

INVITATION TO EXHIBIT

At the 8th CAM-Workshop, which will take place in Halle (Saale) on 10th and 11th April, 2019 a technology exhibition will be held. This year, the workshop will be particularly focused on failure analysis methods and material diagnostics of electronics components.

Following its tradition, the CAM-Workshop will bring together experts from the electronics industry and from material diagnostics equipment manufacturers in order to discuss current and future needs in defect analysis and material characterization from the technology perspective; for sharing current results in failure analysis application studies. Furthermore, the experts will also present the latest achievements in newly developed innovative diagnostics methods, instrumentation and tools. These techniques are applied to secure the quality, yield and reliability of innovative devices.
